Birkenfeld/Frankfurt, Germany, June 28, 2019 –

For the second year in succession, MCD Elektronik is one of Germany's TOP 100 innovational leaders in medium-sized businesses. In the independent and scientifically proven selection procedure, MCD convinced the top-class jury in the TOP 100 innovation competition particularly through its innovative climate and steady progress. Therefore, on June 28 the company was honored by the mentor of the competition, Ranga Yogeshwar, and the scientific director Prof. Dr. Nikolaus Franke in Frankfurt.

"We owe our customers consistent and above-average innovational growth. Therefore, we have been dealing with innovative solutions for self-propelled cars, robot control and industry 4.0 for a very long time", explains CEO Bruno Hörter. Also in `Smart Home` building technology in the area of heating and warm water control, the measuring technique of this top innovator is in place. The company focuses on innovations along the entire value chain: from conception to commissioning on operation site.

TOP 100 evaluates the innovation management of medium-sized companies on the basis of a scientific system with 120 parameters. MCD Elektronik successfully accepted the challenge of defending its title against 398 companies in the following year of its first participation.
